

WALTHAMSTOW MONTESSORI SCHOOL

MISSING CHILD POLICY

Statement of Policy

On school premises:

The entire WMS team is fully committed to and trained in the safety and security of every child in our care.

All children are accounted for in thorough procedures throughout the day. These include at arrival time where every child is individually greeted and then their attendance recorded on a register and then each class is physically checked and counted and the numbers recorded on a board as a double check.

Registers are taken upon arrival in the morning and again after lunch. Regular headcounts are made throughout the day and when children move to a different room or activity or go out to play in the garden.

If a child is missing, staff alert the principal or senior member of staff who thoroughly checks both inside and outside the building. If there is no sign of the child the police are contacted immediately and the child's parents are informed of the situation. Staff will await instructions from the police while senior staff continue to search for the child.

Ofsted would then be contacted and a written report submitted by a senior member of staff.

Off-site activities:

When taking children on outings or off-site activities, a risk assessment is carried out and a site visit prior to the outing. Regular headcounts are made throughout the trip. Children are allocated to certain members of staff with higher than usual ratios to ensure that children are thoroughly safe in unfamiliar surroundings.

- As soon as it is noticed that a child is missing, staff on the outing ask children to stand with their designated person and carry out a head count to ensure that no other child has gone astray. One staff member searches the immediate vicinity but does not search beyond that.
- The setting leader or manager (if not on the outing) is contacted immediately and the incident is reported and the incident is recorded.
- The setting leader contacts the police and reports the child as missing.
- The setting leader contacts the parent/s, who make their way to the setting or outing venue as agreed with the setting leader. The setting is advised as the best place, as by the time the parent arrives, the child may have been returned to the setting.
- Staff take the remaining children back to the setting.

- In an indoor venue, the staff will contact the venue's security who will then handle the search and contact the police if the child is not found.
- The Senior staff member will contact the Principal to report the incident. The Principal carries out an investigation and may come to the setting immediately
- The setting leader, designated staff member may be advised by the police to stay at the venue until they arrive.

The investigation:

- Staff keep calm and do not let the other children become anxious or worried.
- The setting leader together with the chairperson or representative from the management committee or owner speaks with the parent(s).
- The chairperson and management committee or owner, carry out a full investigation taking written statements from all the staff in the room or who were on the outing.
- The key person/staff member writes an incident report detailing:
 - The date and time of the report.
 - What staff/children were in the group/outing and the name of the staff designated responsible for the missing child?
 - When the child was last seen in the group/outing? What had taken place in the group or outing since the child went missing?
 - The time that it is estimated that the child went missing.
- A conclusion is drawn as to how the breach of security happened.
- If the incident warrants a police investigation, all staff co-operate fully. In this case, the police will handle all aspects of the investigation, including interviewing staff. Children's Social Care may be involved if it seems likely that there is a child protection issue to address.
- The incident is reported under RIDDOR arrangements (see the Reporting of Accidents and Incidents (policy)); the local authority Health and Safety Officer may want to investigate and will decide if there is a case for prosecution.
- In the event of disciplinary action needing to be taken, Ofsted is informed.
- The insurance provider is informed.

Managing people:

- Missing children incidents are very worrying for all concerned. Part of managing the incident is to try to keep everyone as calm as possible.
- The staff will feel worried about the child, especially the key person or the designated carer responsible for the safety of that child for the outing. They may blame themselves and their feelings of anxiety and distress will rise as the length of time the child is missing increases.
- Staff may be the understandable target of parent anger and they may be afraid. Setting leaders need to ensure that staff under investigation are not only fairly treated but receive support whilst feeling vulnerable.
- The parents will feel angry and fraught. They may want to blame staff and may single out one staff member over others; they may direct their anger at the setting leader. When dealing with a distraught and angry parent, there should always be two members of staff, one of whom is the setting leader and the other should be the chairperson of the management committee or representative, or the proprietor. No matter how understandable the parent's anger may be, aggression or threats against staff are not tolerated, and the police should be called.

- The other children are also sensitive to what is going on around them. They too may be worried. The remaining staff caring for them need to be focused on their needs and must not discuss the incident in front of them. They should answer the children's questions honestly but also reassure them.
- In accordance with the severity of the final outcome, staff may need counselling and support. If a child is not found, or is injured, or worse, this will be a very difficult time. The chairperson or proprietor will use their discretion to decide what action to take.
- Staff must not discuss any missing child incident with the press.
