The Montessori Work Cycle.

At WMS, our Montessori classrooms offer the children a carefully prepared environment to explore. Each morning, we dedicate a precious, extended period of time to what is called 'The Work Cycle', when the children are free to engage with the materials and activities of their own choosing. The teachers' role is to quietly observe, only intervening when necessary or to introduce a child to a new exercise.

The Work Cycle assists the children's development and offers them many opportunities to develop independence and great focus and concentration, as well as a deep joy for learning and a care for the environment. The children move from one activity to the other in their own time, frequently repeating an exercise many times before tidying it away and selecting another.

RSPB Big Garden Birdwatch.

Did you enjoy looking out for birds in your garden at the weekend?

Which species did you spot and how many of each bird did you see?

Last week at WMS.

We made more bird feeders to help the birds through the winter. We enjoyed spotting them in the garden while learning about their movements, body parts and sounds. Some classes took part in a feather treasure hunt and created beautiful feather bracelets.

Arden in Seedlings Class and Achille in Oak Class were the Flower Monitors.

Our continent focus remained on Europe and our country. The children learned about the royal family and the King's coronation, explored the colours of the UK flag, and made their own edible flags. They also created crowns from natural materials and enjoyed exploring London landmarks, including Big Ben and Buckingham Palace.

We worked on the sound and formation of the letter 'k', for 'king', and in Maths, we compared long and short and studied the number 7.

At Children's House Brookscroft, the children practised peeling and slicing foods for snack. They created beautiful poppy paintings inspired by Claude Monet using cotton buds. Lark showed photos from her Disneyland family trip, Max shared his weekend with Everywhere Bear and Albert was the Flower Monitor.
